- Meeting between general motor skills and sensory awareness

A meeting between general motor skills and sensory awareness, this tactile recognition game consists of 10 large plates (diam. 27 cm) to be placed on the ground with 10 different tactile structures and 10 small plates (diam. 10 cm) with the same tactile structures. The main exercise consists of recognising the same tactile structures with the foot and hand. The large plates can also be arranged simply to make a tactile motor course. The game can also be played by simply touching a table with the 2 identical plates.

Comes with a blindfold and a carrying bag.
